

Are Moving Expenses Tax-Deductible?

If you are qualified, you may deduct the expenses of:

- Tolls and parking fees on the trip.
- Up to 3- days storage of household goods.
- Disconnecting and connecting utilities.
- Packing and transporting goods.
- Mileage for use of your own car (or gas and expense).
- Transportation and lodging for yourself and members of your household while traveling to the home.

Not all moves are tax deductible. In order to deduct your moving expenses, you have to meet two tests:

Time – You must begin working as a full-time employee within 13 weeks of your move, and you must work at least 39 weeks during the 12 months after your move. It doesn't matter whether you were transferred by your employer or you took a brand new job.

Distance – To meet this test, your new job has to be at least 50 miles further from your old home than your old job was. If you didn't have a job before the move, your new job has to be at least 50 miles from your old home.

Consult a tax advisor to see if you qualify.
